MAP OF PROPOSED THRUWAY

THIS MAY BE THE WAY motorists will travel through the area surrounding the Stroudsburgs in the future. The map shows the proposed route of the Thru-Way which would connect main traffic arteries without touching downtown traffic in either borough. Tentative plan calls for route to begin on Route 611 (lower right) then proceed to first interchange at 196 junction, through lower East Stroudsburg, crossing at Broad St. and out to 611 again, by way of interchanges on Route 209 and at Bridge St. Interchanges are shown here by diagrams. Not shown on map is connecting link between Route 196 interchange and Route 402, also part of plan.

Bold, dark unbroken lines are the route of the proposed Thru-Way. Lighter, dark solid lines are regular routes through the area. Borough limits of Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap are indicated by broken lines. Two railroads in the area are shown by solid line with small lines crossing them. Tentative plans for route have been submitted locally by State highway officials. Endorsement of the proposed route has been given by two major local organizations—the motor club and the Eastern Poconos Resort Association. (Staff Map by Randolph)

E.S. Council Refers Thru-Way To Planning Group

Administration Defends Excise Tax Plan As Fair

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1 (P)—The Leader administration today defended its proposed manufacturers' excise tax as a "reasonably fair allocation of the tax burden" despite a parade of industrial and business voices against it.

Henry B. Leader, the governor's brother and legislative secretary, and Sen. Dent, Democratic floor leader, wound up a unique two-day Senate hearing as the only spokesmen for the 3 1/2 per cent impost.

"Misunderstanding," Leader sought to rebut two days of testimony against the 400 million dollar measure on the basis of "a misunderstanding" among opponents on what the tax bill actually would do.

Diver Trapped In 120 Feet Of Water For Nine Hours

SOLOMONS, Md., Dec. 1 (P)—Numb with cold, a 35-year-old Navy diver was rescued from 120 feet of water in the Patuxent River tonight after being submerged nearly nine hours on what was to have been an 18-minute dive.

Fifteen other Navy divers, working in relay teams of three each, finally disentangled Joseph R. Tallarico's snarled lines from a sunken anchor attached to a dummy mine and he was hoisted slowly to the surface.

Tallarico, whose chief complaint during the long rescue operation was that, "It's cold as hell down here," was placed in a decompression chamber at a nearby hospital after being hoisted aboard a 40-foot diving launch and stripped of his heavy gear. Tallarico soon sat up and smiled. Shortly after he was placed in the decompression chamber reporters, peeking through a port-hole, observed him sipping hot coffee and talking with a doctor.

The black-haired chief metal-smith, a Navy test diver with 10 years experience, only recently recovered from minor surgery and his wife, Carmela, told reporters: "This was Joe's first dive since his operation about a month ago. I didn't want him to go down today but he said he was going to dive. 'I'm sure glad he's all right.'"

Easton Polio Victim Leaves For Manila To See Roberts

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 1 (P)—Somewhere west of here Mrs. Dawn Counterman—22-year-old polio victim confined to a wheel chair—was headed for an evangelistic meeting in Manila today. Her husband, Daniel, was providing the motive power. Their total assets were $8 cash, a Bible and tremendous faith.

Mrs. Counterman was almost completely paralyzed when stricken with polio in 1943. Through her illness, she said she was able to carry on because of her faith in God. Earlier this year, she was married to Counterman, who also grew up in Phillipsburg, N. J. The couple settled in Easton on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware River.

Faith in God
Mrs. Counterman became interested in the career of Oral Roberts, Tulsa, Okla. evangelist. She and her husband decided to attend one of his meetings. They wrote Roberts, asking that he mail them a schedule of his planned appearances.

Folsom Sees Increased Aid To Education

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (P)—The White House conference on education was recorded tonight as favoring increased federal aid to schools, and an administration spokesman predicted early action.

Secretary of Welfare Folsom said: "I am confident that in the weeks ahead this administration will present to the Congress a broadened and improved program of federal assistance to help erase the classroom deficit."

Folsom, who had talked earlier in the day with President Eisenhower at Gettysburg, made the prediction in a speech prepared for the closing session of the four-day White House conference. He gave no details.

One of the final actions of the conference, attended by 1,800 delegates, was the submission of a report saying the delegates were 2-1 in favor of increased federal aid to schools.

The report said a majority of the delegates, however, believed federal funds should go to states "only on a basis of demonstrated needs."

It said that of those favoring increased federal aid an "overwhelming majority" approved the use of federal funds to help build schools.

On the question of using federal funds for operating schools, the report said the 1,800 participating delegates "divided almost evenly."

Operation of schools entails such questions as paying teacher salaries and the purchase of textbooks.

AFL Approves Union Merger

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (P)—Merger of the AFL and CIO became practically an accomplished fact today. The AFL voted its final unanimous approval and the CIO is due to ratify the merger tomorrow.

The consolidation brings together unions of the American Federation of Labor and those of the Congress of Industrial Organizations to form a single 16-million-member union group.

The new organization will be known formally as the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO).

George Meany, one-time New York plumber who heads the AFL, is due to become president of the merged AFL-CIO, pledged in a speech to AFL convention delegates that the new organization would be devoted to improving the lot of workers in the nation as a whole.

Safe-Drivering Day Marred By Fatalities

By The Associated Press
DEATH took no note of the nation's Safe-Drivering Day yesterday. A mounting traffic toll shrouded hopes there could be an appreciable cut in highway fatalities.

The National Safety Council at 11 p.m. fixed the official death toll at 48.

An Associated Press survey showed the same figure covering the period from midnight Tuesday to 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Adm. H. B. Miller, director of Traffic Safety, said, "It is apparent that the S-D Day toll will exceed the one a year ago."

On S-D Day last Dec. 15, traffic mishaps claimed 51 lives.

However, two traffic fatalities were reported elsewhere in the state yesterday, although Pennsylvania was well on its way to bettering the record of 1954—first year of the S-D observance.

Last year, seven persons were killed during the 24-hour safe driving period. The tally was the lowest among the major states, according to Gerald A. Gleason, state secretary of revenue, who supervises the Bureau of the Highway Safety.

Killed in accidents yesterday were Mary Alice Swinging, 6, of Johnstown, and Edward Carson, 76, New Kensington.

In Cairo, an Egyptian spokesman said the Israelis began the fight by blasting at two Egyptian posts near Deir el Balah, south of Gaza town, with mortars and automatic weapons. He reported two Egyptian soldiers were wounded seriously.

There was no announcement of Israeli casualties.

Egypt lodged a strong complaint with the Egyptian-Israeli Armistice Commission.

U.N. observers headed to the scene to investigate.

Securities Dealer Accused Of Fraud

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (P)—A federal grand jury today indicted one of the nation's largest over-the-counter securities dealers and a Seattle judge on charges of fraud in the sale of some $900,000 worth of bonds of an insolvent Alaskan company.

Named in a 36-count indictment in Brooklyn were the company, the Alaska Telephone Corp., and its secretary-treasurer and counsel, Elton B. Jones, a Seattle Municipal Court judge.

The securities dealer is Walter F. Teller, who operates Teller and Co., Jersey City, N.J. He lives in Englewood, N.J.

No Accidents Reported Here On S-D Day

MOTORISTS throughout the Poconos made it absolutely certain yesterday that highway accidents aren't a daily necessity.

Using a little extra caution and good share of courtesy and common sense, they were able to see Safe-Drivering Day come and go without a serious accident reported to police.

State police observed that the record was remarkable because of poor road conditions in many parts of the county during the early morning hours when snow made driving hazardous.

Fatalities In State
However, two traffic fatalities were reported elsewhere in the state yesterday, although Pennsylvania was well on its way to bettering the record of 1954—first year of the S-D observance.

Ike Expects To Campaign

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 (P)—President Eisenhower's plan to take a hand in the 1956 election campaign today raised Republican hopes that he will run for a second term.

Reaction of GOP leaders to the President's announcement ranged from uncertainty about the role he will play to a firm belief that he will be a candidate.

The President's message to the Republican National Committee contained this key paragraph: "You have a splendid record to submit to the voters in 1956. I personally am proud of Republican achievements for the peace and the prosperity and security of the American people. I shall do everything in my power next year to help you report the record accurately and fully to the country."

The telegram was read by Chairman Leonard W. Hall at a meeting of the National Committee. Members rose to their feet and applauded. Some of them cheered.

Eisenhower in his telegram, told the party leaders, "We must not stand still." He added:

"Continued progress in the healthy expansion of our economy, even more equitable sharing of the productivity of that economy, rising levels of health, education and welfare for all, and untiring search for a just and enduring peace, must remain our goals."

Iobst Explains Highway Plan To Crowded Meeting

EAST STROUDSBURG Borough Council last night held up its acceptance of the state's proposed $10,000,000 limited access Thru-Way designed to lift traffic from the twin boroughs.

The councilmen decided to have the borough planning commission study the proposed path of the Thru-Way and report back to them with its findings at a special meeting.

This action was taken after close to 40 borough residents jammed the council chambers to hear more about the proposal—and many of them to raise objections.

Stroudsburg Borough Council unanimously okayed the Thru-Way on Nov. 23.

Present at last night's meeting was Edward Iobst, acting district engineer for the State Highway Department, who made it clear from the start that the state does not have to secure the borough's approval. He said it was seeking such an endorsement so that it could retain the "good-will" of residents.

Iobst said the state wants to build the Thru-Way in such a way that it will handle the greatest volume of traffic and in the most economical fashion.

In answer to a question, Iobst said the state might consider any suggested changes in the route plan, provided they were economically sound and would be in line with good engineering principles.

Iobst made it clear that it is impossible to definitely say when actual construction will begin. However, he ventured the guess that it may take two to three years for work to begin.

Plans are to build a four-lane divided highway with two 12-foot lanes in either direction, he said.

Earlier, at a joint meeting of borough officials, it was disclosed that the general route of the Thru-Way starts with new construction at the Delaware Water Gap interchange approach to the Toll Bridge.

Heading in a northerly direction, the Thru-Way will branch off the Toll Bridge approach to the east and move in a direct line to a new bridge which will span both the Lackawanna Railroad tracks and Broadheads Creek near the Coates Board & Carton Co. plant.

The Thru-Way will move toward the Prospect Cemetery area of East Stroudsburg on the west side of the Broadheads.

Iobst said earlier the State is considering a plan to provide an interchange near the "Stone House" intersection on Route 402 traffic to Marshalls Creek and the Eastern Poconos. He also described an interchange near Prospect Cemetery providing for access to and from the Thru-Way at Prospect and East Brown Sts.

Principal objectors at last night's meeting appeared to be property owners in the East Brown St. area, who felt that their homes would be affected.

One objector contended that the Thru-Way would depreciate the value of properties in the area and subsequently reduce the borough's tax revenues.

Several persons raised the question if it would not be possible for the State to consider using the old railroad bed in East Stroudsburg, and thereby shift the route of the Thru-Way away from residential areas.

However, Iobst pointed out that the old roadbed is no more than 12 feet wide. This would mean that workmen would have to cut into the mountain a minimum of 60 feet, making the suggestion economically impossible.

In answer to a question, Iobst said the State would welcome the advice of Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess whom "we consider to be a very capable man."

Germans Bar Deal With Reds

BONN, Germany, Dec. 1 (P)—Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano pledged today the Germans never will sacrifice their freedom and friendship with the West in a deal with Russia.

In a speech before the Bundestag (lower house), he served notice, also, that the Germans will not passively accept the uncompromising Russian "no" to German reunification.

The Adenauer government "knows very well that the fate of the German people would be sealed if it tried to exchange the confidence and friendship of its allies for the sympathy of the Soviet Union," he declared.

Thru-Way would depreciate the value of properties in the area and subsequently reduce the borough's tax revenues.

Several persons raised the question if it would not be possible for the State to consider using the old railroad bed in East Stroudsburg, and thereby shift the route of the Thru-Way away from residential areas.

However, Iobst pointed out that the old roadbed is no more than 12 feet wide. This would mean that workmen would have to cut into the mountain a minimum of 60 feet, making the suggestion economically impossible.

In answer to a question, Iobst said the State would welcome the advice of Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess whom "we consider to be a very capable man."

Further Recourse
Also present last night was Borough Solicitor Charles Bensinger who reminded property owners that they have further recourse if they are not satisfied with damages paid by the State.

Chief Burgess Jesse S. Flory assured those present that both the state and council were "in sympathy" with their feelings. However, he reminded that the proposed route was set forth only after a great deal of study by the state.

States With Biggest Rise In Income Cry Loudest For Federal School Aid

Unquestionably our children should be provided with adequate schools. Because of the greatly increasing school-age population, this will cost more than most school districts now spend. The question is, who is going to pay for it?

Many, especially in the academic field, argue that the Federal Government should help pay for the public schools, at least in the several Southern states which have the lowest per capita incomes. They say this can be done through "grants" without Federal control of the schools involved.

But Congress never appropriates money without specifying how it shall be spent. It has a duty to the taxpayers, from whom it collected the money, to account for the money.

Previous efforts to get a Federal aid bill through Congress have foundered on the unwillingness of politicians to help the so-called "poor" states without helping the others at the same time and at the same rate. This would cost a fantastic amount and also would perpetuate the disparity in our schools.

There is no reason to expect members of this or any future Congress to be any less eager to dish out gravy to the home folks when there is gravy in the bowl.

There are faults in our educational system, to be sure. But most of them can be laid at the door of the very people who are shouting the loudest for Federal aid.

They are the school people generally, and the state authorities who keep their school taxes unreasonably low on one hand and cry poverty on the other.

Of course Mississippi cannot afford to build the schools New York can—nor the roads either.

But to say that Mississippi or any other "poor" state can not provide adequate schools, by planning and operating them efficiently, is to ignore the great increase in income that the "poor" states have enjoyed during and since World War II.

Per capita income in the 12 "poorest" states has risen three times as rapidly as in the 12 "richest" states. In the same period there has been heavy migration from the low-income states, so they are not faced with the school population increase confronting most other states.

The case for aid from the debt-ridden Federal Government to the relatively well-off state governments, for a function that is and should be a state responsibility, is far from proved.

Russian Statements Sound Funny But Threats Leave Sinister Feeling

Were they not so sinister in their threat of things to come, Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin's speeches during his tour of India with Comrade Khrushchev might provide some laughs for those who can understand their ridiculous contentions.

For example, he told a huge crowd in Madras that Western powers, the "same that always supported colonialism in this part of the world," are trying to push the Asians into preparations for a new war. The Soviet premier rang the changes on this colonialism theme, knowing how close it is to the hearts of the Asian millions, but he was "way off the beam" in his comments regarding the Portuguese determination to hold Goa, a tiny colony on India's Arabian Sea Coast.

"A foreign-ruled Goa," quoth Bulganin, "is a shame to a civilized people."

Undoubtedly the goateed Russian, even as he blandly spoke the honeyed-words to his Madras audience, must have thought about the civilized people of all the satellite states still under the domination of Moscow, and of their ruthless control by the forces of the Kremlin.

Logic, of course, never has been part of the forensic arsenal of dictators and their associates, and the inconsistency of his blasts against the Western lands, including the Portuguese would be amusing were it not of such bitter potential.

Between Khrushchev and Bulganin, the touring top man of Moscow, they may have managed to impress untold millions of Indians, even though they brought frowns to the faces of many others for their undiplomatic, ill-timed boasting of the latest H-bomb exploded by Russia.

Nikolai the Unfunny and Khrushchev the Thirsty may gain the plaudits of the many in their bragging speeches, but we doubt that those who control the government of India are over-impressed.

McCarran - Walter Act Gives Politicians Chance To Project Selves Before Public

Three functions of government are under attack:

1. The admission of aliens to this country under the McCarran - Walter Act.

2. The deportation of aliens who entered illegally or who behaved themselves improperly after legal entrance.

3. The issuance of passports.

The conflict on the first function will be settled in the halls of Congress. It is generally agreed that nothing will be done about it during the next session of Congress, but like the Taft-Hartley Act, the McCarran-Walter Act is an excellent means for the politicians to project themselves before the public. Wherever the population consists of first or second generation Americans, it is possible to stir considerable emotionalism against the quota system which benefits some immigrants while restraining others. Although several suggestions have been made to improve this law, no one has yet come up with a workable suggestion. Someday someone will and perhaps immigration will be taken out of politics where it should not be.

The reason nobody comes up with a workable suggestion is that the quota system was evolved to restrict immigration methodically. Those who oppose it really favor unrestricted immigration which, under present conditions, is impossible, although there has been a loosening of the system during the Eisenhower Administration. It is easier to get in and to stay in.

The other two functions are being fought out in the courts. The passport administration, in particular, is being battered in the courts which are reducing that office to a mere agency of issuance without any restraints as to whom a passport may be issued. The Federal Courts, particularly in accordance with a recent decision of Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, in effect make the Passport Office an adjunct of the judicial process instead of an administrative function of the Executive.

This is a vexed constitutional problem which will have to be settled by the Supreme Court. At issue is the information upon which the Passport Office bases its decisions for withholding a passport from an American citizen. The courts want the information, the Administration cannot disclose the sources of its information or it will have no sources. In a word, what the Supreme Court will have to decide is whether the Executive may devise its own means to discover spies, saboteurs, subversives or whether it may employ no methods at all.

District Court Judge James W. Morris last July, in an immigration case, stated the problem as follows:

"To say that these plaintiffs . . . should be deported, which also means in effect the deportation of such American children (because their parents will be deported), upon the basis of 'confidential information' which may be no more than anonymous hearsay rumors, or even by 'unexplained membership in some organizations listed by the Attorney General as subversive, is to deny that the Government is competent to function in such fashion as to give everyone with which the Government deals the right to know upon what basis such action is taken."

In cases involving espionage, sabotage or subversion, it is impossible to get leads for investigation except from persons who had, in some manner, been close to those engaged in these activities. The motives of the informants are many and sometimes are not honorable. Unless the lead comes from such persons, there is not likely to be a lead except accidentally. This is a practical application of police practices. Neither Judge Morris nor Judge Youngdahl can develop a system for gathering such data as is necessary unless they employ informants, tipsters and even gossip. It takes an able evaluator of such data to distinguish the probable from the improbable. Sometimes the leads must be followed only to eliminate them, but without leads investigators cannot work.

So what these decisions amount to is that investigation is to be eliminated. Immigration agents or the Passport Office would have no information to go on. They would have to issue a passport to Ethel and Julius Rosenberg if they were alive. Presently most of the cases involve Communists or spies and the courts imply that they have as many rights as anybody. Congress could say, no. The Supreme Court can say, no. And the sooner this question is settled, the better it will be for all concerned.

The notion that a government is not, as a function of Administration, to determine who is entitled to a passport, is not tenable. But that is what the courts tend to hold.

"He's learning to talk very well now. Yesterday he used two new words 'ready' and 'continue'. And for over a month he's been mumbling phrases like 'Yes, I can hear you' and 'I'll try again'."

"Can he count yet?"

"My goodness, only ten days ago he counted only to eight. Tuesday he got up to sixteen. He'll be going as far as thirty-two any day now."

"It seems to me it takes longer to put him to sleep nights. Do you tell him the right bedtime stories?"

"I've been telling the old one about the two bears and the bunny rabbit. Tonight I'm going to switch to the one about the shoe-maker, the Staten Island cop, the Chicago ball fan, Princess Lipstick and the seven commercials."

"That'll do it!"

Harassed Farmer Due To Fall On Better Days Soon

Speaking of the harassed farmer, as I was the other day, I wouldn't be surprised if he fell upon better days in the not too distant future. A couple of disconnected items that cropped up in the news recently point in that direction. One was a report to the effect that it may prove possible to immunize people against a number of troublesome diseases by vaccinating cows. The other was a story about an actual demonstration of remote-control operation of tractors in the field.

It seems that you can't beat a cow's udder when it comes to producing antibodies, the tough vigilantes that rally inside the body to fight off invading disease germs. For several years now, Drs. William Petersen and Berry Campbell and some 15 colleagues at the University of Minnesota have been injecting dead germs into the udders of some cooperative cows.

The cows take it from there, manufacturing the corresponding antibodies like mad. Dr. Petersen reportedly is now convinced that anybody who drinks a quart of milk a day from such a cow will build up a passive immunity to the disease for which the cow was vaccinated. And there is reason to believe the thing will work against at least 50 infectious diseases, although it hasn't been checked out on people yet—only on animals.

If they can get it going before the anti-fluoridation people catch wind of it, this ought to be better than chlorophyll chewing gum, even. One needn't be the seventh son of a seventh son to envision what a boon this gimmick could be to the milk business. Already millions of people are guzzling milk who never touched the stuff before they started irradiating it. Think of the stampede that will be touched off when they can market anti-strep milk with measles-mauling additives and P.E.I. (pink-eye inhibitors.)

Dairies specializing in the more exclusive and fashionable diseases may be selling milk at $2 an ounce, on doctor's prescription. Vain women who have balked at vaccination won't mind it if the scars show only on somebody's cows.

Hordes of health-beat hypochondriacs will discover that milk is wonderful, just to drink. The farmers will never have had it so good. Of course, inoculating and milking all those cows will be quite a chore, but that's where the remote-control farm machinery I mentioned comes in. If driverless tractors can crawl around a field cultivating feed crops under the direction of radio control buttons it shouldn't be too much of a trick to apply automation to milking machines.

Conceivably the farmer of the future may be able to run the whole place from the seat of his pants without ever leaving his living room or missing a single TV program. How would you ever get 'em down to Paroo after they'd seen anything like that?

Russian H-Bomb Equivalent To 12 Million Tons Of TNT

Washington, Dec. 2—Real size of that giant H-bomb exploded by Russia was more than 12,000,000 tons of TNT. It was the most powerful thermonuclear weapon so far tested by the Soviet, and the second largest on record. The mightiest was the H-bomb detonated by the U. S. in the South Pacific on March 1, 1954.

That was the equivalent of fifteen to seventeen million tons of TNT. American authorities view the Red's hydrogen experiment as the most sinister military development since they started the world with their first atomic explosion in August 1949, several years before it was estimated they would achieve that.

Russia's stupendous fusion blast is certain to have decisive effect on U. S. atomic and air policies. That is the unannounced reason why President Eisenhower is attending this week's meeting of the National Security Council, which is again being held at Camp David, near his Gettysburg farm, expressly for that purpose. The Council will consider a special report on these Soviet tests, which have been in progress since last July.

Nuclear experts anticipate further Red explosions, probably of a smaller magnitude. One likely American reaction is another increase in strategic bomber strength.

Also the Navy will seek more super-aircraft carriers, which are equipped with long-range bombers capable of strategic missions.

The USS Forrestal, the first of these 65,000-ton ships, is afloat, and four others are in various stages of construction. The Navy now wants to lay down a new one every year for at least the next five years.

Secret menaces—The terrifying size of Russia's latest hydrogen explosion is only one of the factors behind the grave concern over this sinister development.

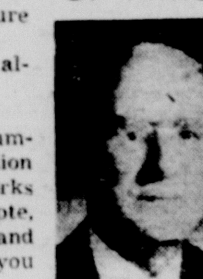

Another is the deadly danger of radioactive fall-out.

There are sound reasons to believe the Russians are deliberately testing the use of the jet air stream to carry lethal quantities of fall-out to the U. S.

In World War II, this air stream was employed by the Japanese to float incendiary balloons to the U. S. Many of them reached this country, some considerably inland. Numerous indications point to the Soviet experimenting along the same line with devastating fall-out.

This fearful threat confronts the U. S. with a new defense problem.

FEP Act Affects Hiring

—by H. G. Heller

Pennsylvania's Fair Employment Practice Act which became effective Nov. 26 in all of its provisions except those relating to discrimination because to all employers having twelve (12) or more employees in Pennsylvania. The term employer includes individuals, partnerships, associations, organizations, corporations, legal representatives, trustees in bankruptcy, and receivers.

The term employers include the Commonwealth itself, all political subdivisions, school districts, governmental boards, departments or commissions.

It includes labor organizations in their relationship with their employees and forbids such organizations to deny full and equal membership to any individual because of his race, color, religious creed, ancestry, age or national origin.

The provisions relating to "age" become effective July 1, 1956.

Exclusions in the Act are: Employers having less than 12 employees working in Pennsylvania. Individuals employed in agriculture or in domestic service, or those employed by their parent, spouse or child. Religious, fraternal, charitable or sectarian corporations and associations are excluded from mandates of the Act unless they are supported in whole or in part by governmental appropriations — which could mean federal, state or local appropriation.

Discrimination because of bona fide occupational qualifications are permissive:

(Note: Apparently it will not be deemed to be a violation of the Act to refuse to award a particular job to anyone unless he has journeyman papers; if he is a college graduate with a particular degree; or has a stated number of years of experience in a like job. Apparently under this exclusion it would be appropriate to refuse to award a job to a person whose health history was such that he could not perform the physical requirements of the job or endanger himself in so doing.)

(Apparently under this exclusion it would be proper to refuse a 16 year old job candidate for elevator operator because it could be construed that the limitation of both Federal and State Laws applying to the employment of minors are bona fide occupational qualifications.)

(More Details on This Important Act Tomorrow.)

Minor Decline Results From Profit-Taking

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Quiet profit-taking ruled most sections of the stock market today, bringing a moderate decline.

Some key issues lost two points in light trading but most losses were held to around a point and there were scattered wide moves on the upside.

The steels, motors, rails, rubbers, mail orders, utilities, chemicals and radio-televisions were mostly lower. The motion picture and airline shares resisted the downtrend with fractional gains while some oils moved ahead easily.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which yesterday came close to new high territory, lost 80 cents today to close at $189.20. The high is $181.50, set just before President Eisenhower fell ill in September.

Industrials Off
The industrial component of the average declined $1.20 today, the rails 80 cents and the utilities 10 cents.

Advances numbered 454 and declines 495. Issues traded totaled 1,189, down from 1,200 yesterday. There were 30 new highs for the year and eight new lows.

Trading was active only at the start and volume declined to 2.370,000 shares from 2,900,000 yesterday.

Emotional Illnesses Traced To Improper Supervision

BOSTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—New bosses constantly demanding more production and never giving praise were blamed for a large proportion of emotional illness in a survey of 91 cases supposed to be "overwork" stress, a psychiatrist told the American Medical Assn. today.

Dr. Jackson A. Smith found similar complaints coming from persons in such varied occupations as vice president, office secretary, or railroad section hand. He suggested the lowered morale and efficiency apparently would be a matter of economic concern to employers.

Reporting at the clinical meeting of the American Medical Assn. here, Dr. Smith, professor of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, found that work, itself, apparently caused only seven of the 91 cases studied.

He said that unwise supervision, observation of a severe illness in another employee, an already-existing state of tension, or a physical injury were the precipitating factors among the remaining 84 patients.

Disagreement with immediate supervisors caused 49 patients to become emotionally ill, he reported.

The trouble usually began, he said, with the hiring of a new supervisor who "believed the most efficient method of obtaining production was to constantly demand and never praise."

At first, the patients reported physical complaints, he said. But after repeated physical examination and laboratory tests, which showed nothing, psychiatric aid was sought.

It then became apparent that the patients were apprehensive, fearful, and constantly concerned about their mental status and physical complaints, Dr. Smith said, adding:

"The loss of efficiency, morale, and interest in the work which resulted from the conflict with the supervisor could not be measured but would seem an area of economical concern to the employer when measured over a period of years or months. . . ."

J. J. NEWBERRY CO. OPEN TONITE UNTIL 9

Two Truman Aides Under Indictment

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1 (AP)—Matthew J. Connelly and Theron Lamar Caudle, who held high positions in the Truman administration, were indicted today on a charge of conspiring to defraud the government.

Connelly, 48, now a public relations man in New York City, was appointed secretary to the President when Truman was in the White House.

Caudle, 51, who has been in private law practice at Wadesboro, N.C., was head of the Justice Department's Tax Division until he was fired by Truman for having outside interests incompatible with his government duties.

Charged with them in the joint, single-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury was Harry J. Schwimmer, former Kansas City lawyer indicted by the grand jury two weeks ago on a perjury charge.

Named Co-conspirators

Ellis N. Slack, former assistant to Caudle in the Tax Division, and Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer, were mentioned in the indictment as co-conspirators but not as defendants.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Brownell announced Slack was relieved of his duties yesterday as an attorney in the appellate section of the Justice Department's Tax Division.

"The grand jury's investigation is continuing," Brownell said. Truman, in St. Louis to address a Catholic youth group, refused to comment on the indictment.

The alleged conspiracy was outlined in a list of 21 overt acts in the indictment.

Connelly was accused of accepting $1,650 paid by Schwimmer, an attorney for Sachs, in Washington on or about Jan. 14, 1952. The one-time White House aide also was charged with accepting in 1949 or 1950, as transferee, an oil royalty interest in Oklahoma.

The alleged conspiracy carries a possible maximum penalty upon conviction of a $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

Caudle and Connelly were accused of conspiring to improperly use their influence, with the hope of personal gain in a tax case against Sachs.

Sachs was fined $40,000 in 1951 for evading payment of income taxes. Federal Judge Roy W. Harper said at the time he was not sending Sachs to prison because of medical opinions presented in court that imprisonment might cause his death.

To Reduce Herd

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 1 (AP)—Five hundred buffalo will be shot next week to keep the Elk Island Park herd within limits that can live on available grazing land. The quarter million pounds of meat will be sold through normal trade channels. About 1,000 buffalo will remain in the park.

Mrs. FDR Chosen

UNITED NATIONS, Dec. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former U. N. delegate, has been designated by the World Wide Club here to read Charles Dickens "A Christmas Carol" at its Dec. 16 holiday program. The club is a U. N. employees' group.

Jerome D. Fenton, Defense Department security officer, tells the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Rights that he defends the practice of scrutinizing cases of a soldier or an employee whose parents or wife is a Communist. He declared that guilt by kinship is not "in the slightest bit derogatory" of the principles laid down in the marriage ceremony, the Bible or the Constitution.

Although corals are typically tropical, there are corals off the coasts of Scotland and Norway that differ in no important respects from tropical forms.

Most Civil Service Firings Due To 'Normal Procedures'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Counsel for a Senate Civil Service subcommittee said today that only a fraction of those government employees listed as fired under the Eisenhower security program were actually discharged under the order that set up the program.

Paul E. Hadlick, the counsel, said he had checked with every agency listed on a Civil Service Commission report which said 3,586 had been dropped between May 28, 1953 through June 30, 1955.

The CSC report said these people had been "terminated because of security questions falling within the purview" of the President's executive order which set up the program in May 1953.

Hadlick said "only 342 were terminated pursuant to Executive Order 10450." He said his check showed that 3,241 were let go through "regular Civil Service or normal departmental procedures," one had been discharged under a previous executive order issued by President Truman, and he had not got a report on the other two.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC), is checking into the question of security firings following arguments as to just what the score is.

Johnston has accused Vice President Nixon and other Republicans of playing a "numbers game" to make it appear the Eisenhower administration has fired thousands of security risks. Johnston and other Democrats have maintained that many listed would have been let go even if there had been no executive order.

Sen. Carlson of Kansas, the only Republican on Johnston's subcommittee, said today that even if employees had not been ousted under the President's order, they had been removed following its issuance.

Although the Arabs made paper in the eighth century, there is little record of its use by Europeans before the 12th century.

Arthur Hammel opened the first day's session by welcoming those in attendance and introducing Peter Salino as moderator. The main speaker was Alexander Ehrlich whose topic was "Grain Destroying Insects." He illustrated his talk with slides.

Thomas E. Harkin, speaker in the afternoon, delivered a talk on "Rat Control." Simon E. Hammel addressed the group on "Making the Most From Telephone Calls." Then an actual demonstration was given in treating rugs and carpets.

Two Women Indicted On Federal Count

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted two Scranton women on charges of conspiring to defraud the U. S. government in their operation of a beauty school for veterans.

Ethyl Maude Fenwick Cabell and Ann Regina Zack were indicted on 11 counts in the case. They operated the Fenwick Beauty School in Scranton.

Specifically, the two were accused of enrolling students beyond the limit established by a state approving agency. They were allowed 100 students and had enrolled, the indictment contended, up to 121 students over a period of months.

The indictment also charged that Feb. 2, 1955, four civilians were enrolled in the teacher's course given at the school "for the purpose of 'padding' the civilian enrollment," though the four did not attend.

Under federal law in any veterans school the ratio of veterans cannot exceed 85 per cent of the total enrollment.

The government contends the Fenwick school exceeded this ratio on a number of occasions.

The indictment also charged that Miss Zack marked attendance records to show that students were present when they were actually absent.

The government also contended Mrs. Cabell signed a number of statements at Wilkes-Barre specifying that she was not violating Veterans Administration regulations.

The grand jury was in session for nearly three days before returning the 11-count indictment against the women.

No date was set for preliminary hearing in the case.

Instructional Flying Gains

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Instructional flying reversed a six-year downward trend and made a small gain last year, the Civil Aeronautics Administration said today.

The CAA, in its annual summary of general aviation—all civil flying except that done by the scheduled airlines and the CAA—counted a total of 1,292,000 hours of flying during 1954 by instructors training would-be pilots. This was a gain of 4 per cent over 1953.

"Business" flying—flights of individuals on business trips in their own or their company's aircraft—continued the leading form of general aviation in 1954, the CAA said.

Fingerprinting Program Urged By Official

TOBYHANA — A nationwide fingerprinting program is of prime importance, Sgt. Robert Musser, Wyoming barracks State police, man told a Civic League audience last night.

At a meeting in Coolbaugh High School auditorium, Sgt. Musser pointed to the enormous part played by fingerprints in the identification of the dead in the August Monroe County flood.

He stressed the aid and cooperation between State police and Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, county coroner in this identification project. Without fingerprints, he said, the work would have been nearly impossible.

It is important, he said, to institute a program whereby all school children would be fingerprinted. This would lead to the eventual inclusion of a set of fingerprints for

Wyckoff-Sears Party Honor Members Of 25-Year Club

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS descended officially upon the Wyckoff store family last night when some 320 employees of Wyckoff-Sears in Stroudsburg and Newton, N. J., were guests of the management at a dinner-dance in the Penn-Stroud Hotel ballroom. Joining regular personnel for the event were all extras hired for the Christmas season.

Focal point of the dinner was a table for Twenty-Five Year Club members, over which President Ernest H. Wyckoff and Mrs. Wyckoff presided. Included in the membership of this group, comprising all who have been with Wyckoff or Sears for 25 or more years, are such well known associates as Henry Buck, who became an employee 44 years ago at about the same time Mr. Wyckoff himself joined the company; Thomas Rinehart, with 41 years of service; Laura Fabel, 38; Helen Mitchell, 35; Irvin Price and Beatrice Gorgy, 34; Harold Albert, 31; Al Larn and Adelaide Gariss, 30; Arthur Widmer, Eva Edison, Elsie Hay and Amy Ellenberger, 28; J. L. Kerlin, general manager; Maude Walton and Morris Geissinger, 27; and Lorraine Wyckoff Flagler, who recently completed her 25th year. Special tribute was also paid Edith and W. J. Pennington, and Selma Rueter, retired department heads, who still return on a part-time basis to the store and are an important part of its personnel.

Decorations

The Twenty-Five Year Club was seated at a long table under a sequined arch spelling out its proud quarter-century history with the company. Greens, red tapers, and Christmas ornaments were used in lavish decoration of the ballroom which was crowded to overflowing, so that additional tables had to be placed in adjacent rooms. In his address, Mr. Wyckoff expressed his ever-increasing pride in being "Papa" of such a large store family, which has grown steadily in the 80-year history of the company. He extended special recognition to

Tower Line Completed By PP&L

PENNSYLVANIA Power & Light Co. announced yesterday the completion of its new 220,000-volt tower line extending from Slegfried substation, ten miles north of Allentown, to Martins Creek power plant, about 15 miles below Stroudsburg.

In reporting on completion of the $3-1/2 million project, H. M. Scheiden, PP&L's Lehigh division vice president, said the line provides an additional high-capacity connection between the company's main 220,000-volt transmission network and the lines now radiating from Martins Creek plant to the northern and eastern portions of the PP&L system.

The new line will also serve to convey into the main PP&L system the additional power to be generated at Martins Creek when its second unit is completed in the middle of next year.

The three steel and aluminum power cables of the 24-mile line are supported by 123 towers which required 1,200 tons of steel. More than 4,000 tons of concrete were used for the tower footings.

Newsprint Firm Limits Deliveries

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—The Poughkeepsie New Yorker said today it had been notified by its newsprint supplier that newsprint deliveries would be cut back 7 1/2 per cent "at least through April 1956."

The newspaper is supplied by the International Paper Sales Co., Inc., Montreal.

New Machines That "Think" Ease Tasks

Your White Christmas electric appliances can think. That may be a little startling until you stop to see that most of the newest electric homemaking helpers are automatic. That means they regulate themselves. They take note of what is going on, adjust themselves to it and give orders for changing operations to meet it. That is a form of thinking in a very real sense.

The thinking parts of your new machines can be very important to you. For years you have used machines that did the work. But you had to operate them. The need for your attention could be an annoying part of housework.

Manufacturers have long been working to help you with the household job. Buried deep in most of the appliances you buy today are tiny thermostats and timing devices that call the signals.

Practically every household task is automatized—water heating, cooking, room heating, clothes washing, garbage disposal, dish washing, refrigeration are on the growing list.

When you throw clothes into a washer, you set a dial, and the machine takes over. You no longer lug three tons of clothes a year out into the yard to dry. A machine does that, the little automatic devices seeing that it's done right.

There's another automatic control in the modern water heater which sees to it that hot water is there when you need it.

One such control will keep cooking temperatures at the right level. Your newest ranges can sense the heat of the food itself. When the new control operates, it refuses to permit bad cooking. In one drastic test, bacon was left frying in the pan for 18 hours. It did not burn or shrivel. With this control every coffee pot becomes an automatic coffee maker and every frying pan an automatic skillet.

AUTOMATIC COOKING. You know, of course, about other automatic cooking controls. You set a dial and put your food on the stove or in the oven. Then you go away to your job, your civic duties or other things. Hours later in the empty house, the stove turns itself on, cooks your food until it is done, turns itself off and keeps the food warm until the family is ready to eat it.

The dishes? You put those in a dishwasher which has other automatic controls. It goes through a complicated washing routine, rinses the dishes in water too hot for your hands and lets them drain dry in a jiffy.

So when you read stories in your newspaper about automation in the factories, you will know you have it in your own home or are planning to get it.

It not only keeps the water the right temperature in your washer, it empties and fills the machine at the proper time and keeps the machine moving at the proper speed.

You may have it in many other appliances in your home. It is not a dream for tomorrow, it is a fact for a White Christmas.

CHANGING HABITS. You may even have a heating and cooling system in one unit. When it's cold, you get heat. When it's hot, you get cool, humidity-controlled air.

This is a giant step beyond the machines that took the heavy labor out of housework. Machines that think, machines that regulate the living habits of America right in your own home, and new controls are freeing minds for more important things.—Adv.

Missing Hunter Is Found Dead

RIDGWAY, Pa., Dec. 1 (AP)—A search party yesterday found a missing hunter, dead in a wooded section 20 miles south of St. Marys in Elk County.

He was Nicholas Pascuzzi, 56, a tavern operator from Jeannette. State police said he evidently suffered a heart attack and died.

Another deer hunter, Carmen Labate, 23, a University of Pittsburgh freshman from Aspinwall, walked out of the woods after having been missing for 16 hours.

Labate made his way out of the woods about 1 1/2 miles north of Kane. He was to have met a hunting companion, George Cook of Pittsburgh, yesterday near Kane but failed to show up.

With modern machinery, one American farmer can handle 80 acres of rice compared to two acres by Asiatic methods of hand tilling.

Clean as an Atom

ATOMIC SCIENCE is helping you with your washing. Makers of electric home laundry equipment are working to get clothes cleaner, faster and easier. Here is a peek inside of one of the electric appliance manufacturers' laboratories. The girls are working with pieces of cloth before and after they have been put through the electric clothes washer. Radioactive materials have been mixed with the dirt which has been used to soil the cloth. That dirt can be trapped by the radioactive "tags."

Look To The Future When You Choose Electric Appliances

Your White Christmas is going to last. When you install new modern electric appliances, they will be in use for years. But, more than that, many families find it more convenient to set up modern living by easy stages.

There will be other White Christmas when you get electric appliances which are only in the planning stage now. But even if you can't put everything into the house at one time, there is every reason to look ahead.

You may only be getting one new electric major appliance this Christmas. Or maybe several. At the same time you can do the spade work for the others that will come in the years ahead.

Possibly you may have to make changes in plumbing or wiring to handle the new equipment. It is almost certain you will have to check up on such problems.

PLAN FOR LATER

When the man comes to tell you about wiring or plumbing, ask him about the future. Often you can save money, fuss and trouble if you have everything done at this time. Make sure your wiring will handle all the equipment you want. Make sure that the plumbing connections are available for the future.

The same thing is true about your own planning. Your kitchen or your laundry is being planned so that it will fit the equipment you will get now. When you get more next year or the year after, will you be worrying and scrambling, hunting space in which to put it?

That would be foolish. When you plan, you can lay out the space for the new freezer or the new ironer that you may not be getting this year, but will be getting later. Maybe you will want a larger or a different refrigerator. Measure up for size and allow for it.

Then when the time comes for the new item, it can be slipped into the place allotted for it with little effort or expense.

POWER CHANGES

When you plan for appliances, you are doing more than acquiring another piece of merchandise. In a very real sense, these are servants who take over the hard labor and even some of the thinking of household tasks. You are changing your own lives.

If you are doing it step by step, you will find that the first big piece of really modern equipment is likely to require changes in the flow of power, water and waste facilities. Keep in mind that other equipment will also need changes in old-fashioned living methods.

Often the changes for the present and the changes for the future can be made more conveniently if they are all done now. Even if that is not possible, you can plan for the future. Leave the connections available where facilities for other years can be attached.

The trend is toward combining electric kitchen and laundry areas. Many homemakers like the idea of having their laundry area in the kitchen or adjacent to it, since it means that they can combine cooking and laundry chores. This, of course, saves time and labor—not to mention dispositions.—Adv.

Did You Ever Think About Your Need For A Retailer?

You've made up your mind you want an electric dishwasher for Christmas. You don't want to do another dish as long as you live.

So you go downtown to look over models and colors and discuss the matter with the man who sells them. You're just doing Santa a favor, finding out all the information for him in advance.

But what if you got downtown to find there isn't a retail dealer? What would you do then? The company that manufactures dishwashers may be nearly a thousand miles away. You can't possibly go there and bring it back.

If that dealer were not there, you would realize what an important man he is for you.

He's the man who took you out of the frontier and made you a woman of considerable leisure. You don't have to do without, you don't have to haggle with distant sources of supply.

Right there on Main Street, or just around the corner, the retail store is waiting for you. There you see all the models of whatever appliances you're interested in, says the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

You talk with the dealer, get prices, demonstrations and the feeling he's interested in giving you what you want. Besides being a good fellow, he's a good businessman and knows that only the satisfied customer comes back for that second sale.

You make arrangements with him, he delivers the electric dishwasher. Right there it is in your home, come Santa and Christmas, and all the exertion you've spent is that little trip downtown. You could even have telephoned instead.

You know that the retail dealer is a symbol of free enterprise and a vital link in distribution of goods to the public. You know that the retailer makes an essential contribution to a dynamic, high-level economy. You're mightily impressed, of course.

But where the retailer makes his biggest impression is on the personal level, in his individual dealings with you. You couldn't do without him. And, for an indispensable man, he's made it pleasant, advantageous and worthwhile to you just to have him around.

COLORFUL—Bright tints have taken the place of the traditional white in this all-electric kitchen. It is the warm center of family activities. Junior knows where the cookies are kept and Sis has confidence that there is room for her doll dishes in the electric dishwasher. Mother has an efficient, well-planned room in which to do her work. ## Pinwheel Causes Wreck

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 1 (AP)—Magistrate J. H. Kirkpatrick says motorists should stop putting useless gadgets on their cars. He spoke out in imposing a $10 fine and costs on a motorist who explained he got into a collision when a pinwheel on his steering gear caught in his overcoat as he tried to make a turn.

Meteorologists Assigned To C. D.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Weather Bureau announced today seven experienced meteorologists will be assigned to federal Civil Defense regional offices over the nation to "assist with problems concerning radiological fallout and natural disasters."

The bureau said its specialists would become staff officers of the regional headquarters to advise on wind-flow patterns as an aid in diagnosing the possible long-range effects of hydrogen blasts.

The meteorologists also will advise Civil Defense officials on weather conditions in connection with natural disasters, such as floods and hurricanes.

Good Samaritan Patrolman Runs Into Trouble

DETROIT, Dec. 1 (AP)—Patrolman John Pedrie, walking a beat, saw Buster L. Goff screech his car around a corner, driving erratically.

Stopping him, Pedrie said, "You have been drinking. Move over and I'll drive to the police station. If you keep on, you'll have an accident."

En route, Pedrie crashed into the rear of a car.

"The brakes didn't work," he told his superiors. "You have to pump them a little," said Goff.

Goff got 10 days in jail for drunk driving. Pedrie is filling out forms necessary before the city can pay $40 damages for the car he hit.

County Men Taking Part In Maneuvers

THREE MONROE County soldiers are participating in the largest joint Army-Air Force maneuver since World War II, Exercise Sage Brush in Louisiana.

They are Pfc. William E. Rogers, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Rogers, 221 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg; Pfc. Robert W. Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, 603 Ann St., Stroudsburg; and Pfc. George L. Seese, son of Carol L. Seese, Canadensis.

Some 110,000 Army troops are testing the latest concepts of atomic, bacteriological, chemical and electronic warfare. The exercise ends Dec. 15.

After that date, the First Armored Division, of which Seese and Rogers are members, will be regularly stationed at Fort Polk, La.

Pvt. Weber, a supply specialist in the 563rd Quartermaster Supply Co., is regularly stationed at Fort Lee, Va.

Rookies To Ride

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—A thousand rookie cops will ride this winter until they get their heavy uniform overcoats. With an eye on the thermometer, the Police Department has assigned them to radio cars. The city has so many new policemen that suppliers have been unable to keep up with the demand for uniforms.

Michigan's Upper Peninsula once produced half the world's supply of copper. Now it furnishes only four per cent of the domestic supply.

Marie Dionne Is Improving

NORTH BAY, Ont., Dec. 1 — Quintuplet Marie Dionne, ill in a Montreal hospital, is "steadily improving" and is expected to come to her home near Callander within the next few days, her father, Oliva Dionne, said today.

Mrs. Dionne visited Marie in Montreal last weekend. Earlier in the month the 21-year-old girl left a cloistered convent in Quebec City where she was training to become a nun.

"The doctor told Mrs. Dionne that Marie's condition was never as serious as first reported," the father said. "She is not suffering from anaemia, as was first thought; rather, she is completely run down, tired and disappointed that she found it necessary to leave the convent."

THE GREEN THUMB:

Bank Earth Around Roses; Plastic Bag Greenhouses For Rooting Cuttings

PROTECT ROSES: Does it pay to protect roses in winter? In most cases it does, especially if the temperature should happen to go below zero. Even if you don't get sub-zero temperatures you can get winter injury by alternate freezing and thawing of the soil in late winter and early spring. If the temperature happens to drop to zero it's not apt to do any harm, but if the stem thaws out and the temperature drops again, that's what kills the canes.

That's why you often get more damage in mild winters than you do in consistently cold winters.

A lot of our friends tell us that the hot, dry winds in spring will kill their roses, but we haven't found any one who can back up this notion.

Earth Protection

Mother earth is still your best rose bush protector. So now's a good time to hill up the soil around the base of the plants, 8 or 10 inches high. This mound keeps the temperature from dropping below the killing point, and avoids alternate freezing and thawing. If you happen to have roses in a region where the weather doesn't go below zero, you won't need further protection, but if it drops to 10 below zero, additional protection of evergreen boughs, straw, etc., will insure against killing.

FREE: Want to know more about protecting roses for the winter? Send The Green Thumb, Naples, N. Y., a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of our brand new bulletin, "Winter Protection of Roses." It's a honey of a bulletin for anyone who loses roses each year.

Plastic Bag Greenhouse

Rooting cuttings: Having trouble rooting cuttings of your favorite house plants? Then try using those plastic bags you store carrots come in. Take clean, baked sand, put it in a bread tin. Moisten the sand and insert the cuttings.

Place the tiny "greenhouse" near a bright window, but not in direct sun, as high temperatures may cook the cuttings. This system can be used for rooting rhododendrons, holly, arbutus, yew, forsythia, and dozens of other plants. Even evergreens can be started now.

There is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
